The assessment process, including tests and examinations, is generally well-received, with constructive feedback contributing to continuous improvement. The availability of sufficient books in the library is acknowledged positively. While the environment for teaching and research receives positive feedback, there is room for improvement in ICT facilities, as indicated by respondents. Furthermore, the data suggests a need for more space in the college canteen.

Nevertheless, the high satisfaction rates with washroom and classroom cleanliness reflect the institution's commitment to maintaining a conducive learning environment. Overall, the feedback provides valuable insights to enhance various aspects of the teaching and learning experience.
